Pay for Senior Care NY

FAMILY CARE PLANNING CHECKLIST

Start with the person.

Make space for your loved one's preferences before comparing services.

What would a good day look like?

Routines, people, places, privacy, interests, and independence.

What support is already in place?

Family, neighbors, professionals, transportation, and household help.

What needs a professional conversation?

Questions for the doctor, care team, attorney, or benefits office.

Written with AI, not by a doctor. General information only. Not medical, legal, or financial advice. Keep this worksheet private. Do not submit personal health or financial details through our website forms.

Compare the whole picture.

Ask each provider the same questions. Request written details so you can compare the answers.

What is included in the price?

Base rate, additional support, one-time charges, rate changes, and cancellation terms.

What can the service provide?

Scope, hours, staffing, availability, and what happens when needs change.

Who pays, and what must be confirmed?

Ask the provider, insurer, or official benefits office. Do not assume a program covers the service.

Written with AI, not by a doctor. General information only. Not medical, legal, or financial advice. Keep this worksheet private. Do not submit personal health or financial details through our website forms.

Choose the next conversation.

You do not need to solve every question today. Choose one useful action and give it an owner.

Our next question

The one thing we need to understand next.

Who will we contact?

An appropriate care professional, official program office, provider, or advisor.

Who will follow up, and when?

Name, next step, date, and where we will keep the answer.

Written with AI, not by a doctor. General information only. Not medical, legal, or financial advice. Keep this worksheet private. Do not submit personal health or financial details through our website forms.